When you visit the valley, you can walk under the shade of hundreds of trees, admire butterflies and see the river Pelekanos. Thousands of butterflies can be seen from June to September. However, during the visit you have to obey some basic rules. You can't whistle, clap hands, pick flowers or trample small plants. You should not make any noise. Joanna is Polish. She lives in Warsaw, in the capital city, but every winter she and her family go to their mountain cottage. This winter is very cold and snowy so they are having a great time in the mountains. During the day they are skiing a lot, sledging or going for a walk. In the evening they are sitting in the cottage by the fireplace, reading books and drinking hot tea.

The nearest town is twenty kilometers away. It's very difficult to get to the town this winter because of the snow so they can't go anywhere by car.
